CAN THE WILLARD OF TODAY FIGHT LIKE JESS OF 1915?

Can Jess Willard fight a battle of championship caliber against a dangerous opponent?

Could the youthful, aggressive Jack Dempsey or the huge Fulton make Willard open up and fight as he fought at Havanna when he won his title from

Before trying to decide the question, just remember that Willard has never been really forced to extend himself to the limits of his great strength, The Johnson he fought at Havana was merely shell of the great negro who whipped Jeffries. Willard took it comparatively easy during that fight. He boxed carefully and was never in danger. He pracsally picked out his own time to knock Johnson WILLARD HAS NEVER HIT A MAN WITH HIS

FULL FORCE SINCE AUG. 22, 1913. On that date Willard killed "Bull" Young with one punch in the eleventh round of their fight at Vernon, Cal. Willard has since admitted he is afraid to use Lis full strength in a fight.

But Willard, desperate, in danger of defeat, might be a different man.

JOE LEVY BOOKS IN TWO BIG BOYS

Fred Fulton, Who Aspires to Crownship, Meets "Grant." Jim Harper Here Friday.

Fred Fulton, the only and real contender for the heavyweight crown, will meet "Giant" Jim Harper, of Kansas City, Mo., in the Unian Athletic club arena Friday night, March 1. That arena Friday night, March 1. That Fred Fulton will succeed Jess Willard as the world's heavyweight champion when they meet is considered a certainty by many of the leading experts on boying. So sure is Fulton that he on boxing. So sure is Fulton that he can knock out Willard he has made can knock out Willard he has made every possible effort to induce blg Jess to consent to a match for the title. Since Willard is taking no heed to Fred's continuous challenges, Fulton has decided to take on every leading heavyweight who cares to accept in a roped arena with him, and within the last year Fred has been taking on one heavyweight after another, and cach of his opponents fell a victim to Fulton's mighty, hard fists. No one who Fulton has met of late could stay was in splendid condition and Moran more than a round or two, and now comes the question as to whether this "Giant" Jim Harper can stand Fulton's onslaughts. It must be was expected to weig hin at about 215 membered that many a champion and pounds and Moran at about 197. Wagers were reported at 7 to5 and 9 to all he had to do was to step right in 5 on Fulton.
